

WOMEN WITH SAUCEPANS AGAINST THE WAR

After the resounding success of the last pots and pans action we are holding another one. Please join us in a predominately female demonstration against the brutal war currently being waged against Iraqis.

Bring saucepans woodenspoons, and other cooking utensils (but nothing that could be considered to be a weapon), also earplugs(!) and your anti-war banners or placards to the gates of Downing Street at Whitehall on Thursday 10 April at 6.30pm (and then again every other Thursday evening until this war is ended). Banging pans not only shows how enraged we are about this war, but is also an excellent release for those pent up feelings of anger and frustration.

Please pass this on to as many women as you know who may be up for it. Men are not excluded if they want to come along.
